Nelekat: Driving Innovation Through Skills Development

Nelekat is a 100% Black woman-owned South African Skills Development institute committed to bridging the gap between education and employment. Through accredited training, consulting, and digital transformation solutions, Nelekat equips individuals and organizations with the skills needed to succeed in today's fast-changing digital economy.

Nelekat offers accredited training programs such as Cybersecurity, Microsoft 365, Artificial Intelligence (AI), Conflict Management, Workplace Essentials Programs and Project Management in partnership with leading global technology providers such as Microsoft, CompTIA, and Fortinet. The company also provides learnerships, internships, recruitment, and placement services that prepare graduates for workplace readiness and connect them with opportunities across various industries.

Beyond training, Nelekat delivers consulting and digital solutions tailored to support businesses with transformation strategies, infrastructure support, and project implementation. The organization's mission is rooted in empowering youth, graduates, and professionals through practical, industry-aligned skills and globally recognized certifications.

Driven by innovation, inclusivity, and community upliftment, Nelekat plays a significant role in strengthening South Africa's digital economy. As a Black woman-owned business, the company champions diversity and creates opportunities that translate education into meaningful employment and sustainable career growth.

Nelekat is not just building skills, it is building futures by shaping the next generation of skilled professionals and driving positive impact across communities in South Africa.
